Master Association Annual Meeting, Election and Organizational Meeting 2021

ANNUAL MEETING

The Master Association held their Annual Meeting the morning of November 10th, 2021 at the Kings Point North Clubhouse. The meeting began with the Treasurer's Report from Forrest Davis. Treasurer Davis reported the income and expense numbers through September 2021, six months into the fiscal year. He noted that although the Master was right on target with the current budget, they would be increasing the Master dues for the upcoming 2022-2023 budget for the first time in 3 years. The majority of the increase was contributed to the necessary repairs and maintenance to the infrastructure recommended by our engineers as well as the estimated increase to contracts and expected increases to supplies and labor going forward.

Jim Argiro delivered his last report as President of the Master Association as he chose not to run for re-election this year. Jim touched on some of the highlights of the past year including the success of helping to bring Covid-19 vaccines to the Kings Point Community. He thanked Mike Bardell, Chief of the Sun City Center Emergency Squad and Vesta Property Services for all of the hard work and effort they put into coordinating these efforts and making the vaccine distributions such a success. He also gave a special thank you to Master Association attorney, Eric Appleton, for being the catalyst that got the whole thing off the ground by reaching out to the proper local and state officials who in turn ensured that Kings Point received the much needed vaccines.

Jim also updated the community on the progress of the Tree Lighting Ceremony and Celebration of the Holidays events that he brought to us earlier this year. Jim, along with other representatives of the Master and Federation Boards, the COA, Vesta and FirstService have been working closely together to bring the community the holiday events of the season. Details on these events can be found on page two.

The Manager's Report was delivered by the Master's General Manager, Shawna Deulio. She reported on some of the year's highlights such as the passing of the Master Association's Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws, the aforementioned Covid vaccines and the formation of the Kings Point Leadership Team partnership with the COA, Federation, Vesta and FirstService Residential.

She also gave updates on infrastructure issues the Master has addressed this year.

Irrigation repairs included 43 mainline breaks, 52 valves, 61 solenoids, 2 two-wire projects and 3 pump replacements. Drainage repairs included 30" and 48" pipe replacements as well as several other pipe and grate replacements. Over 45,000 square yards of roads were paved, permanent lighting with customized capabilities was installed at the front gate and several miscellaneous repairs were completed such as street signs, pot holes, tree removals, fence repairs and golf course clean up.

Moving on to New Business, the Board re-established all of the Master Association Committees: Pond, Traffic, Finance, Planning, Landscape & Irrigation and the newly formed Disaster Planning Committee. A list of committee chairs, oversight directors and members can be found on kpmaster.com.

Finally, it was time for the election results. The 2021 election had five candidates running for three open seats on the board. The candidates were George Cordelli, Forrest Davis, Jim Gundry, Ed Nester and Les Raba. In a close election held by secret ballot, the results were announced as follows: Les Raba

– 58 votes, George Cordelli – 49 votes, Forrest Davis – 45 votes, Ed Nester – 41 votes and Jim Gundry – 36 votes. According to the new Master bylaws, the two candidates with the highest votes, Les Raba and George Cordelli, were each elected to a two-year term while the third highest number of votes went to Forrest Davis who was elected to a one-year term.

The Organizational Meeting was held immediately following the annual meeting and election results. Your new Master Association Board is as follows:

Jim Haggerty – President
Chris Robinson – Vice President
Dave Wetmore – Secretary
Jayne Nardin – Treasurer
Director – Forrest Davis
Director – Les Raba
Director – George Cordelli

The Master Association would like to sincerely thank all of the candidates who volunteered to run for the Master Board this year. The Board hopes that these candidates and other qualified residents will consider volunteering for committees and consider running the Master and/or other Association boards in the future. Good volunteers are hard to find and your help is needed.

The Annual and Organizational Meetings can both be viewed in their entirety on kpmaster.com, under the Minutes & Meetings tab.

COVID-19 VACCINATION REPLACEMENT CARDS INFO

The COA office has been receiving inquiries about where to get a lost or misplaced COVID-19 vaccine card. If the site where you got your vaccine is no longer open or if the team at that site was unable to help you, your only option is to go to the Florida Department of Health in Hillsborough County or call (813) 307-8000 and select "immunizations" option 3.

Reminder From Sheriff Merry

On Nov. 4, 2021 Sheriff Deputy Jeff Merry spoke at the COA meeting about Senior Scams, specifically the Romance Scam; when someone pretends to be a love interest to siphon money from their victims. He encouraged us to check on our neighbors and be vigilant about protecting yourself. In this unsettled time there has been an increase in mental health problems. Let's reach out. Be compassionate and kind!

On November 9, 2021 the Kings Point COA conducted a dedication for the newly installed flagpole at Charles Hassell Heritage Park in honor of our friend, neighbor, and long-time COA volunteer Mildred "Millie" Aumack. Millie, who turned 104 on the same day, was honored with several in attendance to include 5 generations of family members, colleagues, neighbors, residents, and friends. Her colleagues spoke of great memories that were shared with Millie over the years as she was celebrated for her 25 years of service with the COA in Kings Point.

Being described as "Amazing!", and "Always having a smile and a kind word", many were moved when speaking about all the assistance she provided the community. Even though the COA formed in 1975, She was instrumental in the streamlining of the COA office and assisted several residents in obtaining much needed wheelchairs and additional supporting equipment. She actively recruited others to volunteer and was successful as many of the people that Millie recruited are actively assisting Kings Point today. In 2005 Mildred became the President of the COA and with hours of volunteering throughout her decades of service, she retired in 2019.

During this celebratory occasion, here grandchildren were invited to sing her Happy Birthday, and she received gifts to including a small cake (cupcakes for the attendees), a floral bouquet on behalf of the Residents of Kings Point, and an American Flag for her devotion to the COA. To see the ceremony in its entirety, the video of the event can be found online on KPTV on the Masters Association website at <https://kpmaster.com/kptv/> or on the Kings Point Master Association's YouTube Channel. If interested in volunteering, please reach out to the COA office directly.

On November 3rd the Master Association Pond Committee held their first seminar on the ponds in Kings Point. There are approximately 100 retention ponds on the Kings Point property. The Master Association owns and maintains 35 ponds and maintains an additional 13 ponds on the closed golf courses. Of these 48 ponds, 21 are used for irrigation. All the ponds are connected and eventually drain into Cypress Creek or the Little Manatee River watershed. The remaining ponds are owned and managed by Clublink.

An audience of 100 residents attended the seminar to learn about the role of retention ponds, the State requirements for permitting and compliance and the ongoing maintenance of the KP ponds.

and Rob McDaniel, Environment Permit Evaluation Manager for the Southwest Florida Water Management District spoke concerning the need and role of retention ponds for flood control, pollution abatement, recharging the ground water aquifer and providing wildlife habitat. KP is responsible for ongoing compliance with the pond permits issued when the property was developed. Retention ponds slow the drainage of water from the KP property to the original flow rate of the vacant land before construction.

The Pond committee and Master Association staff are examining the permits to ensure ongoing compliance with the requirements of the original documents. This will help the Master in the development of its' 5-year plan.

Jason Jasczek, Operations Manager and Peter Samoos, Project Manager from Solitude Lake Management, the Master's lake maintenance contractor, enlightened the audience about pond management and healthy pond environments. Jason has been overseeing KP ponds for 14 years and is a wealth of knowledge about our ponds.

Anne Whitehall from the Eagle Audubon Society announced the awarding of a grant from Florida Audubon Society and Floridan Power and Light. The grant with a match from the Master will upgrade and enhance our ponds for birds, pollinators, fish, and other wildlife.

A lively question and answer period followed the presentations. For more information about the ponds in Kings Point, email masterkpmaster.com.

Audubon Society Receives Grant for Kings Point

By: Anne Whitehall

Anne Whitehall, Treasurer of the Eagle Audubon Society, Master Association Pond Committee and KP Garden Club member announced that the Society received a Audubon Florida Plants for Birds grant for $2500 which is co-sponsored by Florida Power and Light Company. The grant will be matched by an additional $2500 by the Master Association.

The goal of the grant is to reduce pollutants and nutrients from entering KP ponds, providing flowers for pollinators and enhancing a healthy habitat for birds, fish, and other wildlife, reducing shoreline erosion, and filtering the water entering our groundwater, streams, rivers, and Tampa Bay.

The grant is a collaborative effort of the Eagle Audubon Society, the Master Association Pond committee, the KP garden club, Solitude Lake Management members and staff. Members of these organizations will provide the volunteers and staff to achieve the goals of the grant.

The funds will be used to purchase aqua and landscaping plants, bushes, and trees to improve the health of our ponds. Planting must be completed by May 30, 2022.

The members of this collaboration are identifying ponds that are visible to community members to highlight the importance and aesthetic aspects of healthy pond, aqua, and landscaping plantings. Associations and community members interested in participating in this grant can contact Anne Whitehall at 413-364-6948 for more information.

Why Does My Turfgrass Turn Brown

Susan Haddock, UF/IFAS Extension Hillsborough County

I frequently get questions from residents and professionals asking, "Why is my or this turfgrass turning brown?" The quick answer is that it depends, although that alone is not helpful. There are two reasons why turfgrass begins to yellow or get chlorotic, and in some cases continues to decline to a straw or brown appearance.

The first reason is due to natural physiological processes which can be compared to human circadian rhythms. Our physical, mental and behavior changes respond to light and dark which some refer to as our biological clocks. The same is true of plants including turfgrass. In the fall when the daylight hours shorten (less sunlight) and the temperatures drop, especially at night, plants naturally slow growth and build up energy reserves to promote healthy growth when the daylight hours lengthen and temperatures increase in the spring.

Fluctuations in light and temperature influence photosynthesis and soil temperature, which in turn influences turfgrass root growth and the ability of plants to uptake nutrients. The shorter day lengths and cooler nighttime temperatures of winter months are a signal to warm season turfgrass that conditions are different from the warm summer season growth period. These conditions cause warm season turfgrass to go into semi-dormancy in central Florida. Turfgrass photosynthesis and growth slows. Turfgrass will naturally become less "green" and will slough off 40-60% of its root material. See the turfgrass growth curve diagram and note the seasonal differences in color as well as root density. In late spring, when the days become longer and soil temperatures are warmer, turfgrass will naturally regrow a dense root system and green up.

The less dense and shorter root system in the cooler months cannot uptake nutrients as readily, and as a result, nutrients applied during winter months may leach into groundwater or run off with irrigation or rain. Additionally, the roots are not able to support lush shoot growth and turfgrass may deteriorate over time. Have you had turfgrass that has persistent or repeated disease issues year after year or replaced turfgrass every 3-5 years because it fails to thrive or meet your expectations?

If so, consider the fertilization practices and look at the roots. The roots should be creamy in color, not dark and stubby. Think of turfgrass as a marathon runner:

- The typical marathon runner will train intensely, eat more calories and perform well (the spring to fall warm growing season)
- And, rest, recuperate and consume less calories between

Nitrogen Recommendations, Central Florida

 * Maximum application rates have been adjusted to be consistent with the Hillsborough County Fertilizer Use and Landscape Management Rule

marathons (the late fall and winter cool season)

• If a marathon is run every week with no rest or recuperation, they will not be able to recover or regain strength properly. Something will fail which may be the knees, ankles, feet, or hips (lush turfgrass shoot growth during cool seasons is at the expense of the root system, hence increased disease issues).

• Warm season turfgrass should not be fertilized from mid-November through mid-March in central Florida.

• Type of fertilizer, rates and schedule differ depending on the turfgrass species.

UF/IFAS Extension has specific fertilization guidelines for the appropriate amount of fertilizer to apply and the time of year to make fertilizer applications to turfgrass. The challenge is accepting that turfgrass naturally wants to be off color during the winter months and that even in Florida our plants need a rest from vigorous growth to enable healthy growth during the active growing seasons. Keep in mind that much like a bear hibernates, plants slumber for several months once the cooler temperatures of winter arrive. Fertilizer applications during the cooler months, which promote lush green grass in the winter months, increase susceptibility to disease and insect issues, and contribute to decreased water quality.

This brings me to the second reason turfgrass becomes yellow, straw or brown in color. Stressed turfgrass is more susceptible to disease, insect and weed pressures. Conditions that can promote stress include: too much water (irrigation or rain), too little water (drought or malfunctioning irrigation system), too much or too little fertilization, wrong timing of fertilization, improper fertilizer or pesticide applications, improper mowing practices, lack of sunlight (too much shade), and extreme weather conditions. Over irrigation and over fertilization are the two main contributors to turfgrass disease, insect and weed problems.

If you call me and ask why your turfgrass is turning brown, I will in turn ask a lot of questions about how your stand is and has been managed. I may ask you to email photographs, bring in a sample or to schedule a site visit. You may need to send a sample to a plant diagnostic lab. There is no easy answer or quick solution to properly diagnosing turfgrass problems. If you are ever quickly told, it's this or that and do this or that without proper diagnosis you are wasting your time and money, and potentially making applications that may lead to environmental degradation. So, if your turfgrass is turning brown, contact your local UF/IFAS Extension office for assistance and recommendations on proper management. The UF/IFAS Extension Hillsborough County Office can be reached at (813)744-5519.
